Update on FTSE's September 2024 Market Classification Review

Vietnam continues to remain on the watch list for consideration to be upgraded to a Secondary Emerging Market in the September 2024 Country Market Classification Report.

FTSE Russell's Assessment of Vietnam's Stock Market

Criteria not Qualified

- Settlement Cycle (DVP)
- Settlement – Costs Related to Failed Transactions

→ Due to Vietnam's stock market practice requiring sufficient funds before trading, failed transactions are essentially non-existent.

Changes Acknowledging

The Ministry of Finance and SSC issued Circular No. 68/2024/TT-BTC on 18/09/2024

Introducing the Non-Pre-Funding (NPS) model to remove pre-funding rules for foreign investors when purchasing stocks and setting a disclosure roadmap.

Future Considerations

- Operational Rules from VSDC
- Information Accessibility for Foreign Investors
- Enhancing Registration & Account Opening
- Foreign Ownership Issues
- Clear Roadmap for Implementing New Regulations and Defining Market Participants' Roles

Government Support recognized

For market reforms, FTSE Russell continues to value its constructive relationship with the SSC, other market authorities, and the World Bank Group, which supports broader market reform initiatives.

Note: The above-mentioned weight is the average proportion that each country is held by investment funds (ETFs, open-end funds). The value includes the total holdings in funds by country, compiled by BSC Research from Bloomberg data. Additionally, global investment funds may use private indices or their own criteria for capital allocation, meaning actual investment in Emerging Markets could be significantly higher.

Forecast of the upgrade process and key considerations

Note: Global investment funds may use other proprietary indices or their own criteria to allocate capital, so the actual value of investments in these markets will likely be much larger.

Key Considerations for the Upcoming Upgrade Process:

- Practical Implementation of NPS (Non-Pre-funding) by market participants, especially securities firms, and the experience of foreign investors using the system (Important);
- Perspectives of relevant Ministries and agencies in coordinating efforts to accelerate the market upgrade, specifically: (1) Registration process for foreign investors opening new accounts, (2) Role of the banking system in the central counterparty (CCP) settlement model for the stock market, (3) Foreign ownership limits and solutions for stocks that have reached the cap, (4) Solutions for stocks that have Qualified up to the foreign ownership limit, and (5) Solutions for increasing high-quality listed securities (Important for long-term market sustainability);
- Annual market classification assessment reports from market rating organizations, particularly FTSE;
- From a market perspective: Foreign investor activity and ETFs—particularly the strong net buying of stocks that meet the market capitalization and liquidity criteria in the Emerging Market index, which is a key factor to watch;
- Actual progress of implementing the new trading system and CCP model (establishing a dedicated company—a comprehensive and long-term solution for the pre-funding issue);
- Regulatory actions on other key issues: omnibus accounts, system connectivity, and engagement with foreign investors...

Key points investors should note in the upcoming upgrade process

- 1. Strong net buying by foreign investors in stocks meeting the criteria for market capitalization, liquidity, and foreign ownership limits;
- 2. Practical implementation of the NPS (Non-Pre-funding) solution by market participants and the experience of foreign investors using it. Specifically, the meetings between FTSE Russell and regulators, market participants, and the annual market classification assessment reports in March and September from FTSE Russell;
- 3. For short-term investors, they may consider trading strategies for stocks with potential to be included in the Emerging Market index. For long-term investors, the market correction will present buying opportunities for stocks with solid fundamentals, good growth potential, and prioritize those that will benefit directly from Vietnam's market upgrade.

General comments on the market classification events by FTSE and MSCI:

- Upgrading information is not the main factor driving the stock market upward: While foreign capital may flow into the market (e.g., China), conversely, downgrades do not necessarily lead to negative market trends (e.g., Pakistan). The fundamental factors still depend on the internal dynamics of the economy, such as political stability, natural disasters, macroeconomic policies, monetary conditions, and corporate profitability...
- Stock indices: In the long term, the return rate is almost "flat" in both cases of market upgrade and downgrade.
- Liquidity: Positive after the upgrade information is announced (T0), with a 1-2 month impact for FTSE and 5-6 months for MSCI. The period before T0 varies by country, with no universal trend to draw conclusions from. During the transition process (T1), liquidity will improve within 1-2 months for FTSE and 1-4 months for MSCI (after the transition is completed).
- Foreign investors: They will begin net buying 2-4 months before FTSE announces the upgrade approval (T0) and the start of the transition process (T1). For MSCI, foreign investors act earlier, typically 4-5 months in advance, due to the larger size of the funds referencing the index and the greater influence of MSCI compared to FTSE Russell.

The 2024 GDP achieved the set objective

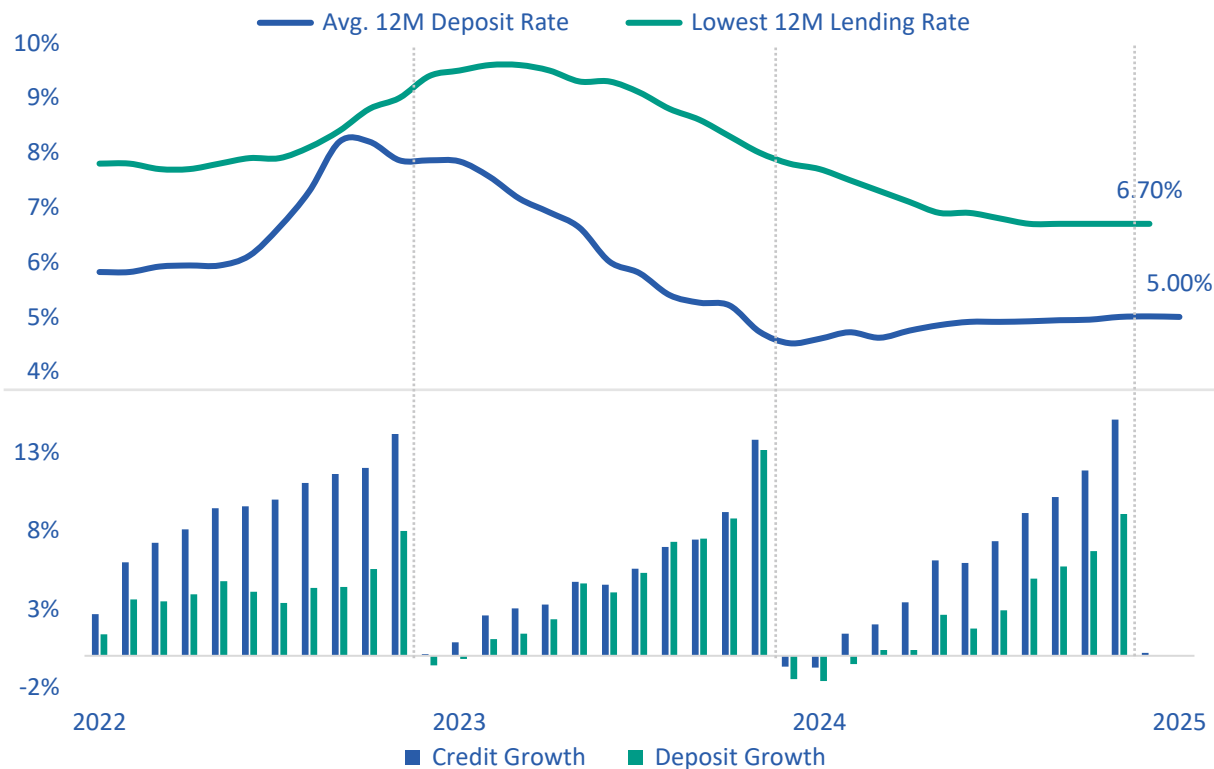

Consumer growth slows due to seasonal factors.

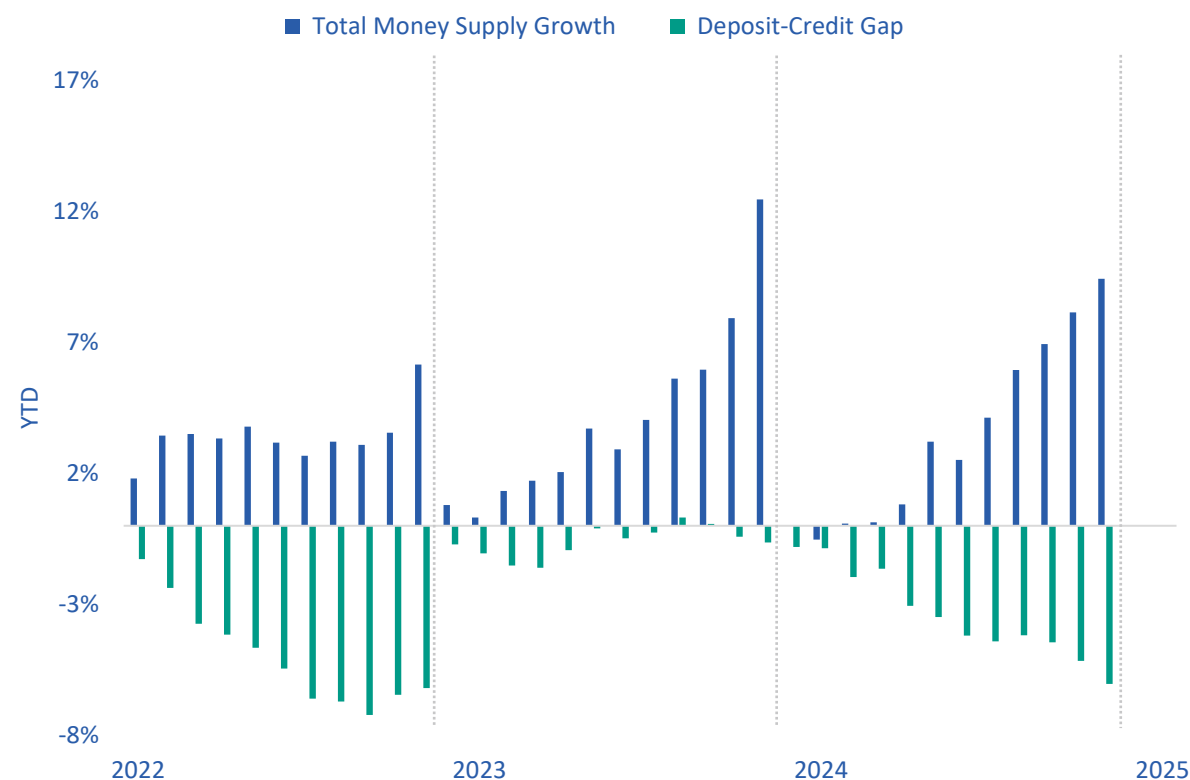

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from the GSO

- Q4 2024 GDP growth reached +7.55% YoY, while full-year 2024 GDP growth was +7.09% YoY.
- The government has set a minimum GDP growth target of 8% YoY for 2025.
- In 2M2025 (January and February), total retail sales of goods and services reached VND 1.13 trillion, up 9.38% YoY
- In 2M2025, retail sales of goods (accounting for 77.2% of the total) reached VND 878,355 billion, up 8.82% YoY.

Many commercial banks have cut savings rates as the PM's directive

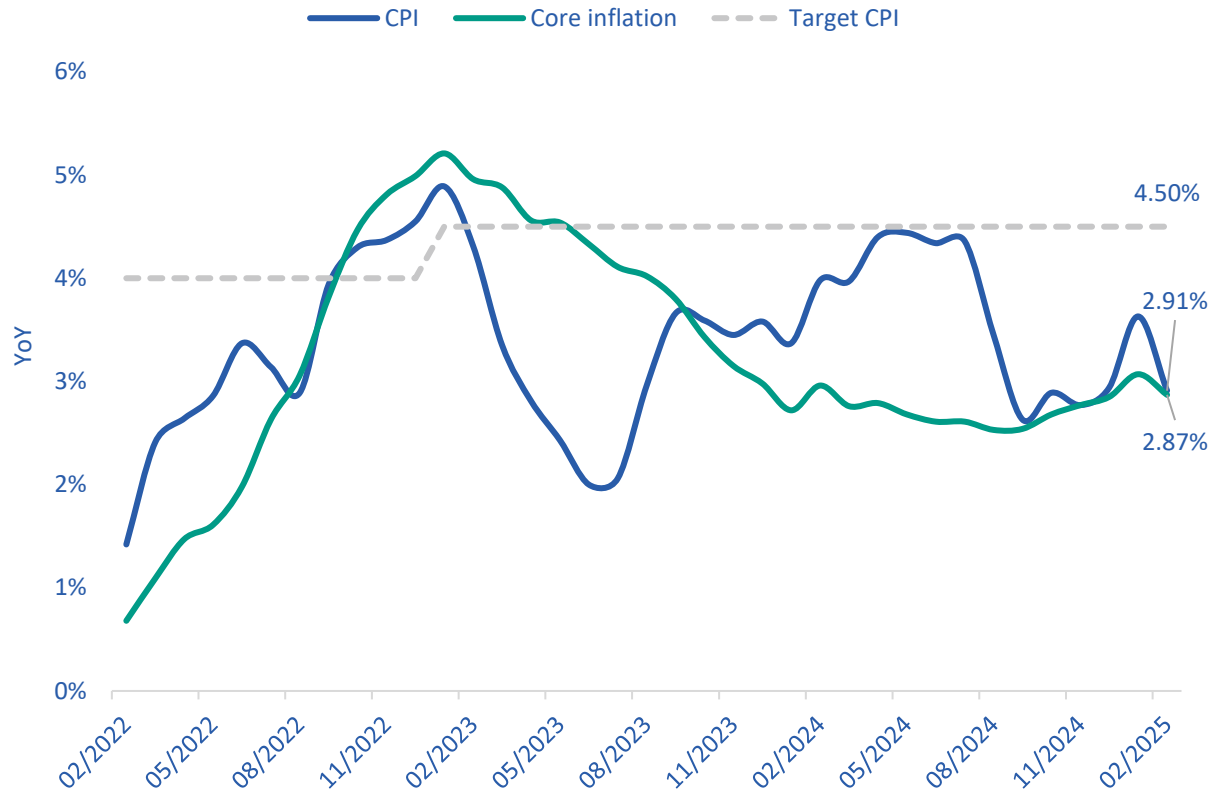

2024 money supply growth is low

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from FiinProX and other sources

- Following the Prime Minister's Directive (Dispatch No. 19/CĐ-TTg), many banks cut savings rates, halting the rise since April 2023.
- On 09/03/2025, the Prime Minister signed Dispatch No. 22/CĐ-TTg, continuing to require a reduction in lending interest rates.
- Credit growth as of January 2025 was +0.19% YTD, reflecting low growth due to the early Lunar New Year.
- Deposit growth in 2024 was +9.06% YTD (compared to +13.16% YTD in 2023).
- Money supply growth in 2024 was +9.42% YTD (compared to +12.46% YTD in 2023).

Moderate inflationary pressure in 2025...

...creates favorable conditions for a loose monetary policy.

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from FiinProX and other sources

- CPI in February 2025 rose by +2.91% YoY; core inflation increased by +2.87% YoY.
- Domestic gasoline prices dropped in line with global oil prices, and rice prices fell due to recovering global supply, offsetting the sharp rise in pork prices since October 2024.

- Inflation remains below the 4.5% target, and with moderate inflation pressure in 2025 (domestic gasoline prices are expected to decrease in line with global oil prices, and rice prices are falling), this provides momentum for the State Bank of Vietnam to continue maintaining an accommodative monetary policy.

Note: Data updated as of February 28, 2025

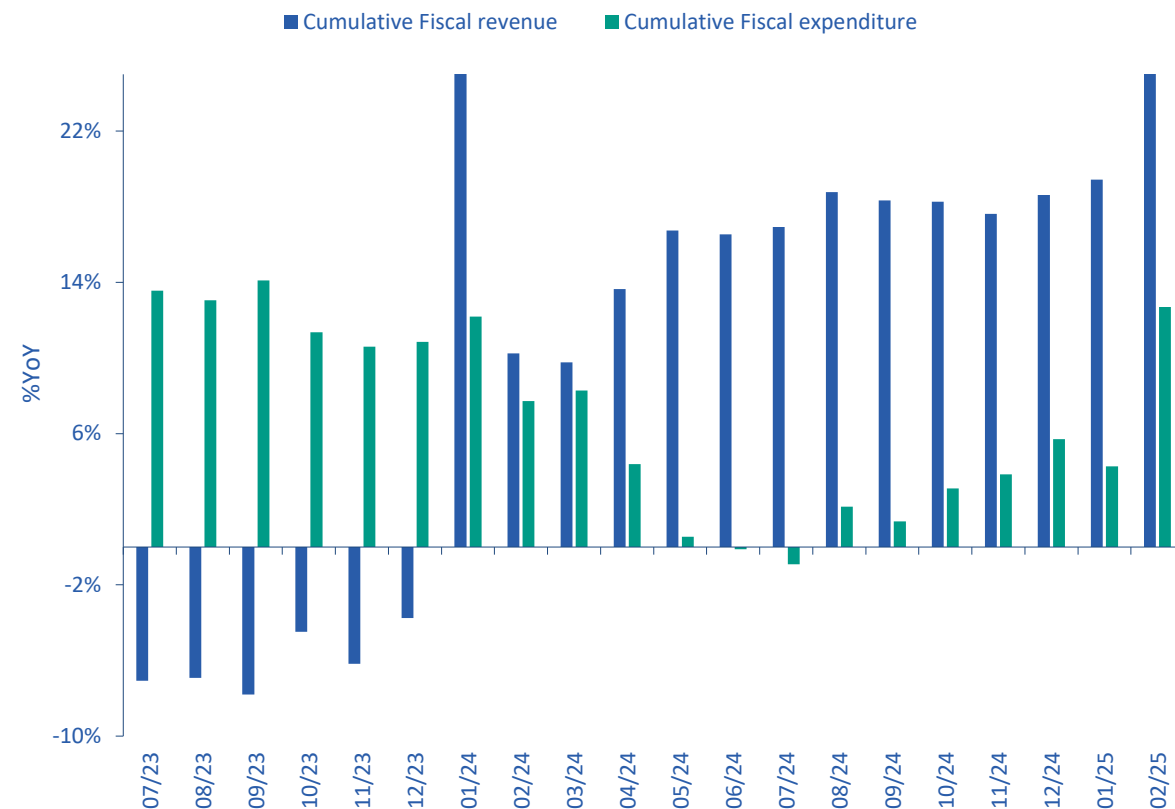

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from FiinProX and the SBV

- The State Bank of Vietnam (SBV) conducted flexible net injections and withdrawals via OMOs. In total, SBV net withdrew -41.06 trillion VND in February 2025.
- The average overnight interbank interest rate was 4.55% in February (compared to 4.14% in January).
- (1) In February, SBV repeatedly lowered T-bill interest rates. Starting from 05/03/2025, SBV stopped issuing T-bills. (2) Starting in March, SBV began purchasing longer-term securities, increasing the duration from 1-2 weeks to about 1-3 months. These actions align with the goal of reducing the general interest rate level in the market.

State budget disbursement increased in February

State budget surplus

Note: Cumulative data compared to the same period (%YoY)

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from the GSO, FiinProX

- The government is determined to achieve a 95% disbursement goal in 2025 – 857 trillion VND.
- Disbursement from the State Budget in the first half of 2025 reached 73,176 billion VND, about 8.52% of the assigned plan (compared to 59,811 billion VND, or 8.40%, in the same period last year). Development investment is estimated at 60.4 trillion VND, 7.6% of the plan, showing a 13.7% increase.
- 2M2025, total state budget revenue is estimated at 499.8 trillion VND (+25.14% YoY), accounting for 25.40% of the annual estimate.
- 2M2025, total state budget expenditure is estimated at 293.8 trillion VND (+12.70% YoY), accounting for 11.50% of the annual estimate.

Note: Data updated as of 28/02/2025

- The USD/VND exchange rate remained at its peak throughout February 2025.
- The US Dollar Index (DXI) has declined since mid-January 2025, following a period of strong growth. Reasons: (1) US economic data (e.g., consumption, labor market, etc.) contracted more than expected, and (2) the market forecasts that the trade war could impact US economic growth.

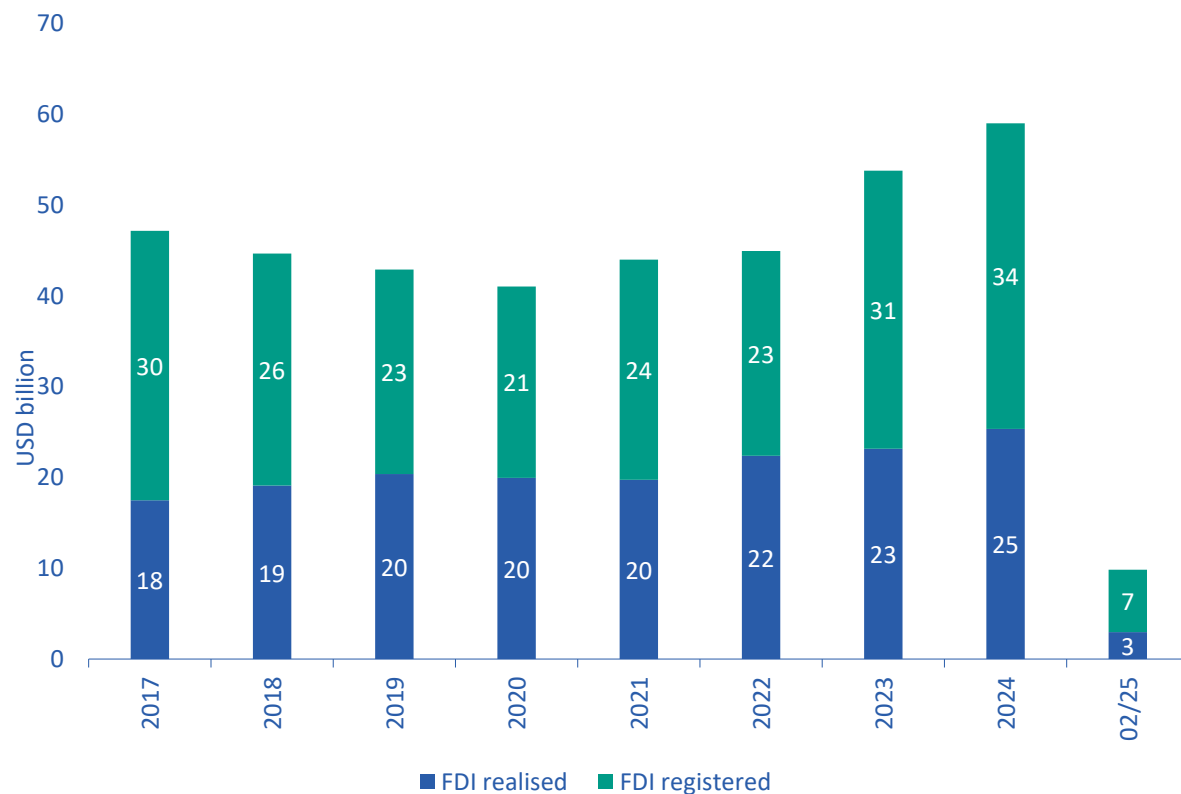

Demand in export markets weakens

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from Bloomberg, FiinProX

- 2M2025, exports increased by +8.35% YoY, while imports rose by +15.90% YoY. The trade balance showed a surplus of 1.47 billion USD.
- Despite strong recovery in trade in February after the Lunar New Year holiday, demand for goods from Vietnam's export markets has declined for the fourth consecutive month.

VN-Index rebounded in February, rising +3.19% MoM

VN-Index 2025 forecast

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from various sources

- As of the closing session on 28/02/2025, VN-Index rose +3.19% MoM. Following the Lunar New Year holiday, Vietnam's stock market rebounded with improved liquidity. The positive market sentiment was supported by several factors: (1) The 9th extraordinary session of the 15th National Assembly passed multiple economic stimulus policies; (2) Market upgrade expectations; (3) The anticipated launch of the KRX system; (4) Positive corporate earnings growth. However, the market also faced challenges such as (1) President Trump's tariff policies, (2) The US-China trade war, and (3) Net selling pressure from foreign investors.
- BSC Research forecasts VN-Index to fluctuate within the 1,300 - 1,315 range in March 2025 before confirming an uptrend in the medium and long term, targeting 1,435 points (as per the base case scenario).

P/E is discounted by over 15.9% compared to the 5-year average P/E

P/E of some countries

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from Bloomberg

- At the close of trading on 28/02/2025, VN-Index's P/E ratio stood at 12.96x, up 5.72x from January 2025, while trading at a 15.9% discount compared to the 5-year average P/E. This ratio has returned above the -1 standard deviation threshold. Meanwhile, the P/B ratio remained at 1.69x. Growth drivers stem from strong Q4/2024 earnings results, coupled with macroeconomic recovery and expansion, keeping VN-Index at an attractive valuation for the medium and long term.
- VN-Index's P/E is projected to expand to 14-14.5x in a positive scenario, as the index continues its uptrend from the previous peak of 1,300 points toward the 1,435-point target.

Liquidity in February 2025 recovered compared to the last month

Foreign investors continued net withdrawals

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from FiinProX

- In February 2025, the average trading value across the three exchanges reached VND 15,854 billion, up 23.63% MoM. Market liquidity rebounded during the month, supported by improved investor sentiment, driven by several factors: the approval of economic growth-supportive policies during the National Assembly's extraordinary session, improved corporate earnings, and sustained low interest rates. However, the market still faced foreign net selling pressure and increasing exchange rate risks.
- In February 2025, domestic individual investors recorded net buying of over VND 9,050 billion, nearly tripling compared to the previous month. Conversely, foreign investors continued their net selling trend, offloading more than VND 9,592 billion, primarily due to the high DXY index amid escalating geopolitical tensions, prompting investors to seek safe-haven assets. Currently, domestic retail capital serves as a counterbalance to foreign selling pressure.

Domestic investors opened over 149,000 new accounts

Margin lending balance continues to rise

Source: BIDV Securities (BSC), FiinproX, updated as of 28/02/2025

- According to VSD, in February 2025, domestic investors opened over 149,000 new accounts, nearly doubling from January 2025. By the end of February, the number of domestic retail investor accounts surpassed 9.4 million, approximately 9.5% of the population. The surge in new accounts coincided with improved investor sentiment.
- Margin lending balance in Q4/2024 continued its upward trend, rising +9.83% QoQ. The increase in margin balance, despite declining market liquidity, indicates cautious investor sentiment. This suggests a partial shift of margin funds to other forms of investment rather than direct market participation in 2024. The rebound in liquidity in early 2025 signals a more substantial margin lending activity.

Foreign investors net sold over 9,800 billion VND

- Continuing the net selling trend from January 2025, foreign investors continued to record strong net selling in February, with a total value of VND 9,851 billion. This trend was also observed in regional markets, with significant outflows from Indonesia (-1,110.6 million USD) and Malaysia (-495 million USD). The strong net selling was mainly driven by unresolved geopolitical conflicts between Russia and Ukraine and escalating trade tensions due to President Trump's tariff policies. However, the prospect of foreign capital returning remains, supported by expectations of stock market reclassification and stable interest rates.
- In February 2025, GVR, GEX, and TCH were the most net-bought stocks by foreign investors, while VHM, SSI, and GMX saw the strongest net selling.

Both domestic (-$24.01M) and foreign (-$20.74M) ETFs recorded net selling

Source: BIDV Securities Company (BSC) compiled from Bloomberg

- Foreign ETFs: Continued net outflows totaling over $20.74 million, mainly from VNM ETF (-$10.45M), Fubon ETF (-$10.03M), and FTSE ETF (-$0.27M). Notably, Fubon reversed to net selling this month, while VNM and FTSE showed signs of narrowing outflows. Overall, although foreign ETFs remained in a net withdrawal position, the scale of outflows moderated compared to January 2025.
- Domestic ETFs: Faced strong net outflows in February 2025, totaling over $24.01 million, 24 times higher than the previous month. E1 ETF experienced the largest outflows, with over USD $17M withdrawn, while Diamond ETF also returned to a net selling trend, posting outflows of $7.47M.

- In February 2025, 14 out of 19 sectors recorded positive performance. Among them, the Basic Resources sector performed the best, driven by the rise in commodity stocks responding to U.S. trade policies that could push global commodity prices up. Conversely, the Telecommunications and Technology sectors recorded the lowest performance during the month.
- The Food & Beverage and Technology sectors were the most favored by domestic investors for allocating capital. On the other hand, Basic Resources and Insurance sectors experienced the strongest net selling pressure from both domestic and foreign institutional investors.
